

It's the start of a new year. January is the month most people make resolutions for themselves. You might have already made personal resolutions for yourselves, but what about professional resolutions? We are in remarkable times to say the least, and with that comes great responsibility.

I'd like to take a moment to share some of my resolutions with you.

1. My first resolution for 2022 is, I want to further my education on our past as a nation, so I know where we are going and how we are going to get there. You see, we live in the greatest nation on earth, despite what is currently being taught in our public schools. At the end of last year, I took a Maryland Constitution Class. This 6 week course was the most enlightening History course I have ever taken. Do you all realize you swore an oath at the beginning of your terms to uphold the Constitution the way GOD intended? Now, you don't need to answer me right now, but I want you to ask yourselves, how many of you are familiar with our Maryland Constitution? If you have sworn an oath to uphold a document that you've never actually read, how can you truly uphold your positions to the best extent possible? How can you fight against a tyrannical state board of education if you don't know the laws in which are being violated and broken? You are listening and seeking counsel from a lawyer who's bar exam didn't have a single question regarding the MD Constitution on it. History is bound to repeat itself if we are not careful. Will you take the steps with me to educate yourselves on our nation's history and the strife and sacrifice our Founders, Framers and Writers went through to create the greatest living document on Earth? As people in positions of power, it is your duty to educate yourselves to effectively uphold your positions.
2. The next resolution is I want to educate those around me. I may not have all the answers, but I have the tools to guide me in a practical and unbiased direction. The root of education for myself and others is the preservation of our children. They are the next generation of leaders and need to be led on a path of prosperity and love for one another, not self doubt and fear.
3. My final resolution is, I plan to act. We, as a collective society, have somehow decided it is not prudent to speak out against things we don't believe in for fear of rejection and societal repercussions. I, for one have had enough. What I've realized is when we decide Not to speak, we ARE speaking and when we don't ACT, we ARE acting. Only we're not saying and showing how we truly feel about issues affecting our everyday lives. I am going to act this year. I have filed to run for the Worcester County Board of Education District 6 seat to help speak out for those who share the same ideals and perspectives as me. And believe me, we are out there. Don't confuse silence with compliance and complacency.

After hearing my New Year's resolutions, what will you do? Will you decide to educate yourselves and those around you? And furthermore, will you decide to ACT and end the tyrannical mask mandates which are repugnant to our State and Federal Constitution as it is written? The children of Worcester County Public Schools deserve better this year.
